

CORPORATE OFFICE SITE SELECTION & INCENTIVES

Corporate office projects, including shared service, data center, and R&D facilities, are often marquee projects for any community, bringing high-paying jobs and bragging rights. Whether looking at a downtown business district or a suburban office park, these facilities must align with corporate culture and facilitate interaction among staff to encourage collaboration and new ideas. Each projects brings its own set of challenges, not only in picking the right location, but also in negotiating very high stakes, complex incentives packages. Let us be your guide to that process.

SITE SELECTION

Given our relationships and understanding of real estate development and deal financing, we can comprehensively work to help you find the right corporate location.

WORKFORCE

Attracting talent for corporate projects requires more than just placing an online want ad. Focused recruitment and training efforts with both public and private providers, is essential to the success of the facility. In addition to providing objective analysis, we gather insights from C-Suite executives to learn more about what it is like to have a corporate presence in a chosen community.

INFRASTRUCTURE

Given the high wages associated with these projects, they often attract significant incentive packages. These are often complex and unfold over many years, and their negotiation requires a skilled, knowledgeable team.
